Next Friday: Mincha followed by Kabbalat Shabbat takes place at	7.15 pm.

This Shabbat is one of those rare occasions when we read from three Sifrei Torah. The Sedra of Tazria is read from the first Sefer and we only call up six men followed by Hagbah and Gelilah. The seventh aliya is called up to the Rosh Chodesh reading from the second Sefer Torah. This is then followed by חצי קדיש (Half) Kaddish, Hagbah and Gelilah. The Maftir is called up to the third Sefer for the special reading for HaChodesh.

The Haftorah of HaChodesh is read, although we have the minhag of also reading the first and last verses of the Haftorah for Shabbat Rosh Chodesh.

In addition, we recite "Half" Hallel during Shacharis, insert the prayer Ata Yatzarta into the Mussaf Amidah and add Borocho Nafshi at the end of the service. Page numbers will be announced.

There will be no Shacharit or Ma'ariv services on Sunday 3rd, Monday 4th, Tuesday 5th, Wednesday 6th, Thursday 7th & Friday 8th.

Normal services will resume on Sunday, 10th April.

Parshat HaChodesh

The Shabbat that falls on or before Nisan 1, we read the "Hachodesh", which relates G-d's words to Moshe in Egypt two weeks before the Exodus, instructing us to set the Jewish calendar by the monthly new moon, and to regard Nisan as the "head of months." G-d also instructs us to bring the Pesach offering, to eat it with matzah and bitter herbs, and to abstain from leaven for seven days.

Tazaria — Sedra Synopsis

This Shabbat, in addition to Parashat Tazria, we will be reading Parashat HaChodesh. The Torah declares: HaChodesh HaZeh Lachem Rosh Chodashim – ‘this month of Nisan shall be the head of all the months of the year for you’.

Nisan, which we are now commencing, is of course the month of our freedom, the month of great joy. And that joy is reflected in the omission of the Tachanun, the Confession Prayer, throughout the entire month, seeing as nearly every single day has a festive character.

“with the commencement of Adar, our joy increases”

If that is the case, why is it that the Gemara in Masechet Ta’anit tells us, Mishenichnas Adar Marbim B’simcha – ‘with the commencement of Adar, our joy increases’. Surely Nissan is far more joyous. There in the Gemara, Rashi comments as follows.

Mishenichnas Adar y’mei Nissim hayul Yisrael Purim v’Pesach – ‘There were days of great miracles for the Jewish people, Purim and Pesach’. Notice that in commenting on the joy of Adar, Rashi mentions Pesach. From here we understand that with the commencement of Adar a process starts, a process of joy which then rolls into the following month of Nissan, and that joy becomes intensified.

How privileged we are that in this era, since the establishment of the State of Israel, we have two new festivals: Yom Ha’atzmaut and Yom Yerushalayim to enable the happiness of Nissan to be followed up through the happiness of Iyar, which is the month thereafter.

“sometimes special events can be a waste of time unless there is successful follow-up”

In educational circles we recognise that with regard to special events, sometimes those events can actually be a waste of time unless there is adequate and successful follow-up. And this is a key theme of the Jewish calendar; our Shabbas’ and our Yom Tovs are there to inspire us through the days, the weeks and the months that follow. The same applies to the concept of peace. In Askenazi circles in the morning we pray Sim shalom, ‘God please give us peace’. By evening time, it is shalom rav, ‘an abundance of peace’.

With regard to the affection, we have for our Creator, at the dawn of every day we declare ahava raba, ‘an abundance of love’. By evening time, it is ahavat olam, ‘everlasting love’.

So therefore, we recognise that follow-up is the essence of any special occasion. In this spirit, now that we are commencing the month of Nisan, at the heart of which is the festival of Pesach, let us extend to others the greeting of Chag Sameach with a prayer that the simcha, the joy of this month, will indeed be with us, and all people on earth, for all time.
